

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY®
Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine

Virtual Academy for Aspiring Physicians

Marshall University Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine will host a virtual academy for undergraduate students who aspire to become physicians.

Tuesday, June 8, 2021 • 9 a.m. – 3 p.m.

The academy is free to students and will be offered to a limited number of registrants on a first come basis.

Join other undergraduate students for an exciting day. Topics will include

- Advice from current medical school students
- Interviewing skills
- Overview of medical school admissions application
- Tips from experts on the admissions process

Preference is given to:

- West Virginia residents and out of state students currently enrolled in a West Virginia public or private accredited college or university
- Students who have passed a minimum of 30 earned college hours

Women, minorities and those from underrepresented groups in medicine are encouraged to apply.

NOTE: Students can complete a Registration Form online at

<https://ruralhealth.marshall.edu/initiatives/college-student-programs/>

- Registration forms must be received by June 1, 2021
- Questions: Contact Amber Vance at elkins34@marshall.edu

Marshall University Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine

Robert C. Byrd Center for Rural Health

<https://ruralhealth.marshall.edu/>